STANFORD, LINCOLN COUNTY, KENTUCKY, TUESDAY, JULY 18, 1911

EVERY TUESDAY AND FRIDAY.

WILL KENTUCKIANS BELIEVE THIS MAN?

O'REAR SAYS BRADLEY'S TITLE TO SENATORSHIP WAS WON WITHOUT STAIN OR BLOT

What faith can honest Kentuckians put in Judge O'Rear when he lays a hand on Bradley's brow and declares that he is one Senator upon whose title to his seat there is no blot? And O'Rear was on the grounds and saw the whole vile plot put through by which four men were bought out right to put Bradley over. Judge O'Rear's endorsement of Bradley's looks like he wants votes any way he can get them. It was a great play to Bradley whose support he much needed powerfully but not without undoubtedly prove a boomerang.

"Declining his speech he referred to Bradley as the greatest living Kentuckian, and added—this being from the stenographic report in O'Rear's Louisville organ:

"I am proud to say of him, further more, that, despite the machinations of the lobby, here is one Senator from Kentucky on whose title there is no stain and on whose record there is no blot."

"All Kentucky—Democrats and Republicans alike—has been for two days against at that utterance. When these words were sent in by the associated press the Messenger could not believe Mr. O'Rear had been quoted correctly and called up Louisville for a verification which was promptly given.

Sitting as Chief Justice of the highest court the Legislature that after a long and disgraceful deadlock, elected Bradley, was Edward C. O'Rear. The scandal of Bradley's campaign for United States Senator, with his chief backers and sponsors—Bradley in turn looking after the liquor and beer interests—was upon every tongue.

Everybody knew who were most conspicuous in the Bradley headquarters and the desperate efforts that were being made by these interests—which O'Rear professes to abhor—to encompass the defeat of the Democratic opponent of Bradley.

As Democratic votes, one by one, were plucked away from Lickhan, the stretch of the foul news permeated the whole atmosphere, and when McNutt, "Lariton," "Ford" and one other now dead, were finally induced to vote for and elect Bradley, the entire State was unpeckably shocked.

"Ever since the Lorimer investigation commenced the men in this conspiracy have been quaking in their boots. Bradley was probably kept personally in ignorance of what was done for him, but those who did it are consoled in these days of searching investigation by the knowledge that the statute of limitation now bars their offense.

"Does anybody believe that Ed O'Rear did not know something of what was going on then or that he believed one word of the shameless eulogy he passed upon Bradley in his personally conducted convention?"

"Beginning his campaign with such a preposterous utterance, can the people of Kentucky be asked to believe he is sincere in any other statement?"

"But why did he feel it necessary to apologize? He was when, with a sweeping indictment he was denouncing nearly every other prominent Kentucky Republican?"

"The sequel of this may be told in a few days, and it will be of interest. O'Rear has made the Bradley scandal an issue in this campaign. O'Rear has branded himself in the outset as an inflexible man, utterly unworthy of belief."

SERIOUS CHARGES AGAINST YOUNG MEN

THREE TOBACCO MEN ARRESTED FOR STARTING ROUGH TIMES IN HUBBLE SECTION

Warrants charging disorderly conduct of a riotous nature and one Dick Robb charging him with attempt to detain a woman against her will, were sworn out before County Judge James P. Bailey on Thursday against Dick Robb, Oscar Reid and a man named Gregory. All three men are tobacco lands it is said.

The three men are said to have been very drunk on the day named and to have thrown rocks at a tenant house of Mr. Bratton's and created other disorders, while Robb is said to have insulted a Mrs. Bray who resides in the Hubble neighborhood and to have followed her up and offered her money. She is said to have fled from him and to have run for protection in the house, with her baby in her arms, when the drunken man pursued her.

Sheriff McCarty immediately went out and arrested Robb and Reid but Gregory got wind that the officers were after him and made his escape. The trial of the men has been set for Thursday the 20th, and some sensational testimony will be brought in the cases. It is said.

MISS NEWLAND SUSTAINS BAD INJURY

FALLS FROM ROCK WHILE STEPPING FROM BUGGY AND BREAKS CHIN BONE.

Stepping from her buggy in the dark new late Saturday evening, as she thought, up the stone which stands in front of her father's gate, Miss Kate Newland, missed her footing and fell, her chin striking upon the sharp edge of the rock, which cracked her chin bone in half, and fearfully dislocated both of her jaw bones driving them both far up under the skin above her ears. Her injuries were most painful and serious, and it required several hours effort on the part of physicians to get the jaw bones properly returned to their sockets and the chin bone reset. So delicate and difficult an operation was it, that her teeth had to be bound together with fine dental wire, so that she would be unable to move her lower jaw, the slightest and thereby prevent the dislocated joints from healing improperly.

Miss Newland is one of the most popular and attractive young ladies of Stanford, an d she has the sympathy of the entire community in her suffering. The accident was a very peculiar one, and would never have happened had she not misjudged the location of the stone upon which it was customary to alight from vehicles stopping at the gate of her father, T. D. Newland, the well known grocer, at his home on the Somerset pike. She thought that she had judged the position of the rock correctly and so stepped off into space, falling as she did so, with her chin just striking the edge of the stone.

So tightly are her jaws bound together, that she is unable to partake of the slightest food and has to be fed through a straw with liquid entirely, and will have to subsist on this kind of diet for several weeks probably. And she is also unable to speak a word. Physicians have made her as comfortable as possible but her predicament is very inconvenient and painful.

Sunday Killing

The negroes, with several others were indulging in a crap game and Blain charges that Toms drew a razor after they had had a row and attempted to cut him, when he Blain, grabbed a pistol from his brother, fired one shot at Toms, the ball taking effect in his abdomen and causing almost instant death. Blain telephoned to Sheriff McCarty who went to Milledgeville Sunday night and brought the negro to jail here. His examining trial is set for Thursday both parties to the killing are worthless characters.

The barn, which was a good one, containing a lot of oats and grain and three buggies and a lot of farming implements, was quickly consumed.

Mrs. Brawner and her child and the young man had a narrow escape the infant being nearly suffocated and has been sick ever since the fire.

Fine Mule Killed

GILL COWAN LOSES ANIMAL IN PECULIAR ACCIDENT

W. G. Cowan the popular West End farmer, lost a valuable mule at his place near Hustonville, last week and in an unusual manner. He had a pair of mules working to a wagon in a field which became frightened and ran away. They passed a large sugar tree, and swerving suddenly, the tongue of the wagon struck the tree, a glancing kick, which threw one of the mules violently against the tree, mashing it up horribly and killing it instantly. The other mule, was hurt very little. Mr. Cowan had been offered $450 for the pair of mules; a Sam H. Westfield went to the lot short while before that and had resale at Junction City. Dr. Brown tolufused it.

VIGOROUS LEADERS IN OLDER LIFE

DISCUSSED BY PRESIDENT PATTERSON IN PAYING TRIBUTE TO GOV. MCGREARY.

The following tribute from President Emeritus Jones K. Patterson, of State University, was recently published in the Courier-Journal:

To the Editor of the Courier-Journal: The opinion is sometimes expressed that men who have occupied prominent places in affairs and have done great things are not capable of doing effective things after they have passed the traditional three-score and ten. That this is a fallacy a few instances, and they might be multiplied, manifold, will show.

Augustus was more capable of empire at 76 than when he defeated Antony at Actium 40 years before. Gladstone conducted with brilliant success his most strenuous political campaign when over 80. William I and Von Moltke won the victories of Sedan and Gravelotte and laid France prostrate in the dust over 50. Chas. Victoria laid down the burden of empire when in the full maturity of her powers when over 80; and the veteran emperor of Austria holds the reins still with a steady hand, though already four-score. Marshall Radetzky annihilated the army of Charles Albert on the fatal field of Voltaire when 82 years of age; and Voltaire was crowned amid thunders of applause in the theater Francaise, when his "Irene" was placed upon the stage at 78. Humbolt completed his immortal Cosmos at 90. Chief Justice John Marshall was in the full vigor of his powers at 80, and Chief Justice Roger V. Taney at 87. Justice John M. Harlan one of the most distinguished of living Kentuckians, wrote recently an opinion dissenting from the deliverance of the supreme court on the Standard Oil decision characterized by a wealth of legal learning, a powerful grasp of detail and a soundness of logical process unassumed by any of his contemporaries or any of his predecessors, and this at the age of 78. Joe Jefferson never appeared with more dynamic power than in Rip Van Winkle at 75; Tennyson wrote "Crossing the Bar" when past 80. LaFayette completed his "Traite de la Mecanique Celeste" at 76, a work which takes front rank in intellectual vigor in scope and profundity with the Principia of Sir Isaac Newton and the Quaternions of Sir William Rowan Hamilton. Henry Clay brought forward and carried when 73 years old the greatest political measure of his life, the famous compromise act of 1850. Daniel Webster and John C. Calhoun were still full of fire of former years when they died, the former at 70 and the latter at 88 years of age. George VII, whose long contest with the German Emperor reached its climax in the humiliation of Henry IV, at Canossa, was nearing 70 when he brought his antagonism to his knees and Paul III, one of the most imperious of the pontiffs, did not hesitate, when nearing 70, to fumigate his bull of excommunication against Henry VIII, John Wesley, when nearing 90, was still the most indefatigable and eloquent preacher in England. Michael Angelo produced one of his famous masterpieces, "The last Judgment," when three-score years and ten, and Titian at about the same age completed his famous painting of "The Battle of Lepanto."

And in these latter years, Justin S. Morrill, of Vermont, and William G. Allison, of Iowa, added juster and dignity to the senate when past 80. Within a few months Dr. James H. Angell, when past 80, retired from the presidency of the famous University of Virginia after a service of nearly 40 years, and Matthew H. Buckley, president of the University of Vermont, was still vigorous and active at the time of his death, though nearing 80. Instances of great mental vigor at an advanced age might be multiplied by dozens and by scores, but these will suffice to show that many men are capable of great feats of mental power between 70 and 90 years of age.

While not a politician, I am greatly interested in the good government of the state. In addressing this letter to you and through you to the people of Kentucky, I do not wish to be understood as disparaging the claims or the abilities of any candidate for the office of Governor. I wish only to record my estimate of the one whom I prefer.

Few men have had experience so wide and so varied in the management of the affairs as James B. McCreary. He has been before the public for more than 40 years, of continuous service in the field, in the halls of legislation and in executive duties, he made a notable record as a gallant soldier and a capable officer during the trying ordeal of the Civil war, he evaded no duty and qualified before no danger. After his return to private life he represented his constituency in three successive national Democratic conventions. He represented his county in three successive sessions of the State legislature, during the last of which he was speaker of the House. He represented his district in Congress for six successive terms, namely 1885 to 1897, and represented Kentucky in the Senate of the United States from 1903 to 1909. From 1875 to 1879 he was governor of this commonwealth. While a member of Congress he was appointed one of the commissioners of the United States to the International Monetary Congress at Brussels, where he maintained with dignity and with credit the reputation of his country.
